

SPIRITUALITY AND MEANING MAKING PROGRAMS

Carnegie Mellon is committed to the holistic growth of our students, including creating opportunities for spiritual and religious practice and exploration for individuals all along the spectrum of spiritual and religious development. Carnegie Mellon encourages an explorative mind-set for all students — creating programs and resources for students to pause, engage in self-inquiry, and to reflect upon and articulate one's moral fabric.

Additionally, we offer programs and initiatives that cross traditional religious boundaries in order to increase our students' knowledge of and appreciation for the full diversity of the world's religious and spiritual traditions.

For more information about Spirituality and Interfaith Initiatives please visit cmu.edu/student-affairs/spirituality, or email jonny@cmu.edu or mandyb@andrew.cmu.edu.

Please do not hesitate to contact cmic@andrew.cmu.edu if the church, center, temple, group or organization that you are searching for is not listed here.

COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS ADVISORS (CoRA)

The Carnegie Mellon Council of Religious Advisors (CoRA) is a body of religious and lay leaders organized around supporting and encouraging religious and spiritual life within the campus community. Members of the council provide a variety of services including counseling, educational programs, conferences, worship, discussion groups, social events and religious instruction for the campus community from their own traditions while working cooperatively on interfaith programs.

The university acknowledges the staff members of those ministries who are commissioned by their particular faith group to work within the campus community at Carnegie Mellon. Each chaplaincy has its own mission, objectives and schedules, which are available through the individual faith groups. However, as a whole, CoRA is highly active on campus and representatives can be seen at many important events.
